INTRODUCTION

In this book, Genealogical Resources in the Atlanta Area, I have tried to compile a concise list describing locations such as archives, government institutions and libraries for genealogical research in and around the City of Atlanta: The book includes information about Federal and State of Georgia agencies, as well as those in the following counties: Clayton, Cobb, DeKalb, Douglas, Fayette, Fulton, Gwinnett, Henry, Paulding and Rockdale.

In addition, there are two special sections: the first provides information about the Family History Centers, and the second lists specific Atlanta Jewish sources. In every section of the book, there is an alphabetical listing of resources with detailed information such as facility director, address, phone number, hours of operation, directions from downtown Atlanta, description of the resources, finding aids, description of the facility, fees, and any restrictions on use.

Several appendices provide additional sources of information to be found in the Atlanta area: genealogical and historical societies, books of interest, Jewish synagogues, Jewish cemeteries and Jewish undertakers. All of the resources are indexed by surname, locality, and subject.

Good luck in your research,

Gary Palgon
